Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm will master catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. All druggists sell the 50 cent size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

The Balm is used without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

Ely's Cream Balm contains no cocaine, mercury nor other harmful drugs.

Mammy's Dream

It Was Thought to Be Superstition, but It Was True.

By HARRIET L. GEDDES.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

In Alabama in antebellum days was a fair plantation comprising many hundred acres and many hundred slaves. On an elevated spot stood the mansion, a great square house with "galleries" surrounding every story and shaded by high trees. In the rear were the homes of the negroes, a line of cabins, kept clean by frequent coats of whitewash. The plantation, now cut up, is the site of large cotton mills.

This property was owned by a child six months old. Its grandfather and its father had both died within a brief period, leaving a young widow, mother of the heir at law, as his guardian and manager of the plantation.

Edward Le Moyne, this child's uncle and brother of his father, was a forcible man, who, under the pretense of assisting his sister-in-law in the management of her property, established himself in the house and assumed control. Mrs. Julian Le Moyne, the widow, had not invited him to do so, but, being a very gentle feminine person, had not the will power to prevent him. Edward Le Moyne in his youth had been wild. Indeed, he had disgraced himself, and his father had willed the property to his brother Julian. When Julian died and Edward commenced the role of assistant to the mother of the child, who had inherited the property, the mother was sure his object was to get rid of the heir that he might become the owner himself.

Edward Le Moyne had married a woman beneath his family, by whom he had a son. Had Edward brought them to the plantation to live Mrs. Julian would not have had the will power to prevent his doing so. Instead he established them in a town near by, and Mrs. Julian knew very well that the next move would be, when Edward had got rid of her son, to the manor house.

As might have been expected, the child fell ill. Edward Le Moyne saw him lying in his mother's arms unconscious. She accused him of having poisoned the boy and, summoning more fortitude than she had displayed before, ordered him out of the room. Quailing before her, he retired. Two days later he saw a little coffin carried to the family burying ground on a hill near by, followed by the widow and a number of her house servants, who were devoted to her. When she returned to the manor house she packed her belongings and the same day took her departure.

Edward Le Moyne took possession of the plantation, brought his wife and son, then ten years old, to the mansion and lived there a lonely life. None of the neighboring planters would have anything to do with him, and his slaves hated him.

Twenty years later his son, Tom, who had come into possession of the property, with a view to establish relations with the neighboring planters, gave a ball. He was no better liked than his father had been, and the acceptances were few. Nevertheless they were sufficient for a merrymaking. Among the guests was Proctor St. Clair, a young man who had been brought up by a relative and extremely popular on account of his high sense of honor, his independent character and other manly traits. Another guest was Caroline Archard, the belle of the country round about. Tom Le Moyne was ambitious to win this girl, thinking that a marriage with her would gain him an entree into the aristocratic families in his neighborhood.

But hardly had the guests arrived and the festivities begun before Le Moyne observed that Miss Archard was manifesting a decided preference for young St. Clair. The traits of the father showed themselves in the son. He resolved to work by underhand means, relying largely on assurance to carry his point. When his guests were ready to depart he invited them all to remain as a house party for as long as they would. A dozen accepted, among them Mr. St. Clair and Miss Archard, both secretly desiring to avail themselves of the opportunity to be together. Le Moyne was especially urgent that St. Clair should remain, promising him every facility for enjoyment.

Le Moyne used his privileges as host to assign himself in all rides, drives and other amusements to escort Miss Archard. Nevertheless he saw that the moment she was free she and St. Clair seemed to fall together naturally. One morning after breakfast St. Clair returned to his room for some article of clothing and was hunting for it in the closet when, hearing a step, he turned and saw Le Moyne come quickly into the room, pull out a bureau drawer, drop something in it and retire hastily, as he had come in. St. Clair, being in the closet, had not been seen. A moment after his host had left the room he went to the bureau drawer and took out a small box containing several articles of jewelry.

He was filled with astonishment, horror and indignation. It was evident to him that Le Moyne had placed the jewels in his drawer, intending to accuse him of having stolen them. St. Clair closed the door and spent half an hour deliberating. At the end of that time he took the jewels to Miss Archard and told her how he had come by them. She had experienced enough of Le Moyne's attentions to her to divine his object. Then St. Clair took the jewels to Le Moyne, whom he found with several of his guests, and told him where he had found them. Le Moyne colored and stammered that some of the house servants must have stolen them and temporarily hidden them in St. Clair's room.

"You lie!" said St. Clair. "I saw you come to my room and place the box in my drawer."

Le Moyne raised his cane and struck his accuser. St. Clair attempted to strike back, but the others interfered.

At that time in the south such an affair must be settled under the code duello. The accusation against Le Moyne could only be wiped out in blood. He knew that it could not be wiped out at all. There was not one of his guests but would believe the word of St. Clair in preference to his own.

With the dogged spirit that possessed him, Le Moyne proposed that they should settle the affair at once. St. Clair was agreeable, and, though the others present advised delay, the two principals were too hot for it. Rapiers were the weapons most used, and there was sufficient space in the room where they were. The adversaries, in shirt and trousers, faced each other, swords were handed them, and they began to fence.

Le Moyne, true to the instincts of his race, was cool. Not even the truth of the charge could unnerve him. St. Clair, on the contrary, was so shocked, so indignant, at the base attempt to put a stigma upon him and rob him of the girl with whom he had just plighted his troth that he fought wild. The result was that in a few minutes he received a sword wound in the side which took him out of the fight.

He was carried to his room and a surgeon sent for, who pronounced him in danger of his life. Of course removal was out of the question.

The first Miss Archard heard of the matter was that her lover had been stabbed by her host and was lying in his chamber in a critical condition. She flew upstairs and in another moment was bending over him.

"Why," she moaned, "did we come into this house? It is accursed."

At the moment an old negro woman entered and heard the words.

"No, missy," she said, "de house ain't cu'sed. Hit's de people in it. Don' worry, honey. I had a dream las' night. I dreamed I saw a picession goin' to a grave takin' a baby coffin. An' I saw 'em buryin' de coffin. Den when dey all go way I saw de baby rise out o' de groun', an' he was growed to be a fine young man. An' he said, 'Mammy, my dear ole mammy!' He put his arm around my neck an' kissed me. 'I's come of age today.'

"I know wha' de dream meant. Don' yo worry, honey. Hit's all comin' out right."

The lovers well knew the superstition of the colored race and thought nothing of her words. But her prediction that it would all come out right proved true. It was a month before St. Clair could be moved, and during this period Miss Archard came every day to nurse him, though never once did she deign to notice Le Moyne. One day, shortly before the surgeon gave permission for the removal, the negro who had told her dream came into the room in which St. Clair was lying. Miss Archard sitting beside him. The old woman locked the door and approached the bed with her finger on her lips.

"Is it de fif' ob August?" she asked.

"Yes, aunty."

"Lis'en! I got a secret I'm gwine to tell yo'. I promise missy I nebber tell twill dis day, cos dis de day yo', Mars' Julian"—

"Julian! I'm not Julian. I'm Proctor. Something is the matter with you, aunty. You're gone daft."

"Jus' yo' wait, honey. Mars' Julian, yo' twenty-one years ole dis berry day. Reckon I ought to know. I'm yo' mammy."

By this time she had caught their attention.

"Yo' ma, she lib heah, an' Mars' Le Moyne, Mars' Tom Le Moyne's father, he come in to run de plantation. Missy 'fraid her baby git poisoned so Mars Le Moyne 'ud own de prop'ty. Yo', de baby, git sick. Missy t'ink Mars' Le Moyne poison yo'. So she pe'tend yo' daid. She git a coffin an' she fill it with stones, an' she said to me: 'In heah is de proofs dat my boy is not in de coffin. Yo'll know all about him, an' on de fif' ob August, 18—, yo' tell him who he is. Den he kin claim de plantation his own self.'"

When the old woman finished the lovers, whose eyes had been opening wider with every word, looked at each other in astonishment.

"And this is the mystery that has been hanging over me all my life!" said Julian.

"And I believe it's all true," added the girl, clasping her hands and drawing a long breath.

"Well, aunty, or, rather, my dear mammy, you've kept the secret so long; keep it longer."

"Dat I will, honey."

It was more than a month later when one night Julian Le Moyne appeared as a resurrectionist on the hill near the plantation and took up a little coffin lined with lead. In it were stones and the proofs of the identity of the child it was supposed to contain. The proofs established the fact that Proctor St. Clair was Julian Le Moyne and heir to the Le Moyne estate.

He dispossessed his cousin, took possession of his property and married Caroline Archard.

THE UGLY LEOPARD

He Is a Cattle Thief and Even a Human Being Thief.

WORSE THAN LION OR TIGER.

Seizes Its Prey by the Throat and Clings With Its Claws Until It Breaks the Spine of Its Victim or Strangles It.

Less in size, but even more ferocious, the leopard has a worse character than the tiger or lion. Living mainly in trees and very nocturnal, this fierce and dangerous beast is less often seen than far rarer animals. It is widely spread over the world from the Cape of Good Hope to the Atlas mountains and from southern China to the Black sea, where it is sometimes met with in the Caucasus.

Any one who has frequented the zoo for any time must have noticed the difference in size and color between leopards from different parts of the world. On some the ground color is almost white, in others a clear nut brown. Others are jet black.

Wherever they live leopards are cattle thieves, sheep thieves, dog thieves and human being thieves. Though not formidable in appearance, they are immensely strong, and it is not unusual for them to turn man eater. Both in India and in Africa they have been known to set up in this line as deliberately as any tiger. They have four or five young at a birth. The cubs can be kept tame for some time and are amusing pets, but it is extremely dangerous to have them about.

In Hongkong an Englishman had a tame leopard. It was brought into the dining room by a coolie to be exhibited to the owner's guests. Excited by the smell of food, the leopard refused to go out when one of the women, who did not like his looks, asked that it be removed. The coolie took hold of its collar and began to haul it out. It seized him by the neck, bit it through and in a minute the coolie was dying, covered with blood, on the dining room floor.

The Chinese leopard ranges as far north as the Siberian tiger and, like the latter, seems to grow larger the farther north it is found. The color of these northern leopards is very pale, the spots are large and the fur is very long.

The natives of all countries are unanimous in declaring that the leopard is more dangerous than the lion or tiger. They have no fear of the lion, provided they are not hunting for it, for it will not attack unless provoked, but a leopard is never to be trusted.

In Africa a number of natives were firing the reeds along a stream. One of them, a boy, being thirsty and hot, stooped down to drink. He was immediately seized by a leopard. The boy's brother, with an admirable aim, hurled his spear at the leopard while the boy was in his jaws. The point separated the vertebrae of the neck, and the leopard fell stone dead. But the boy could not recover. The leopard's fangs had torn open his chest and injured the lungs. The latter were exposed to view through the cavity of the ribs. He died during the night.

Leopards are essentially tree living and nocturnal animals. Sleeping in trees or caves by day, they are seldom disturbed. They do an incredible amount of mischief among cattle, calves, sheep and dogs, being especially fond of killing and eating the latter.

They seize their prey by the throat and cling with their claws until they succeed in breaking the spine or in strangling the victim. They have a habit of feeding on putrid flesh. This makes wounds inflicted by their teeth or claws liable to blood poisoning. Nothing in the way of prey comes amiss to them, from a cow in the pasture to a fowl up at roost.

In the great mountain ranges of central Asia the beautiful snow leopard is found. It is a large creature, with thick, woolly coat and a long tail like a fur boa. The color is white, clouded with beautiful gray, like that of an Angora cat. The edges of the cloudings and spots are marked with black or darker gray. The eyes are very large, bluish gray or smoke colored. It lives on the wild sheep, ibex and other mountain animals. In captivity it is far the tamest and gentlest of the large carnivora, not excepting the puma. Unlike the latter, it is a sleepy, quiet animal, like a domestic.

The West African leopard skin is more handsome than the Asiatic, the spots being very distinct and clear. He and she—they usually go in couples—are fond of hunting cantonments and around native towns, where they pick up a goat and now and then a baby.

One night I was camped in a native town and after I had retired the natives, as was their custom, were sitting about a great fire asking my caravan all sorts of questions, for the African savage is the greatest gossip in the world. Suddenly a child's cry rang out, followed by a great clamor. Rushing out to discover the cause of alarm, I was informed that a leopard had stolen from the darkness and quick as a flash had grabbed a four-year-old child and made off with it. The child was seated in the midst of the grown men and women. The latter could only lament their loss. They knew it was useless to try to pursue the beast into the dense bush.

The leopard is so bold that even in daylight he will wander about a town or a white man's premises. It is not at all unusual to get a good shot at a leopard from a bungalow veranda or a mud hut door.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Northwestern Pacific People Getting Busy

A dispatch from San Francisco under date of the 13th inst., says the Northwestern Pacific railroad is showing signs of activity regarding the closing of the gap between Willits and Eureka and completing plans for the extension of the road north to Crescent City.

It became known today that the road had invited bids for two new sections bridging the gap between Willits and Eureka, consisting of 30 miles of new work. One bid is for work from the Willits end covering the distance from Outlet Creek to the Covelo bridge, and the other is on the Eureka end from Dyerville to Fort Steward. In this section is the Island Mountain tunnel, which involves the heaviest piece of construction work on the line.

A wagon road has been constructed to the mouth of the proposed tunnel, and it is expected that machinery will be hauled to the site and borings will be rushed throughout the winter months.

The Southern Pacific is perfecting the rights of way from Eureka north to Crescent City, and there is talk of the road being constructed to connect with the Shasta route at Rogue River in Oregon.

Concrete Pipe for Sewer Purposes

The attention of our readers, and particularly those who own property in Sonoma, is called to the strong recommendations in favor of concrete pipe for sewer purposes, published elsewhere in these columns. As Sonoma is about to contract for its proposed septic tank sewer system it were well that tried material be used in its construction. Santa Rosa's main sewer was constructed of concrete pipe manufactured on the ground with home labor by Geo. Rielly and is said to be the best ever.

El Verano Post Office Burglars Still at Large

The burglars who blew open the Postoffice safe at El Verano last week are still at large. So far no trace of the men has been discovered and it is thought that they may never be apprehended. Still Sheriff Jack Smith and Deputy Sheriff Joe Ryan have not as yet given up the quest. On Sunday, accompanied by the above named officers, Frank DePue, the noted finger-print dectective, visited the scene of the robbery and secured specimens of the finger prints of the burglars. Through these the officers may capture and bring the culprits to justice.

SCHELL RANCH TO BE SUB-DIVIDED.

Will be Converted into Small Farms Which Will be Sold to Desirable Settlers.

F. P. Weymouth & Co., the realty dealers of San Francisco, who recently purchased the big thousand-acre Schell ranch, located four miles south of town, will cut the tract up into small farms and dispose of them to desirable settlers. The soil is remarkably rich in that section of the valley and is capable of producing with the greatest of luxuriance almost everything that grows.

The tract will be surveyed and put upon the market this fall. F. P. Weymouth, the senior member of the firm, and W. J. Sweigert, its attorney, were in town Wednesday. These gentlemen see a great future ahead for the gem of California's valleys, and expect when they will have put the Schell tract upon the market it will be disposed of on short notice.

The advent of the Weymouth realty company into this valley and the subdividing of the 1,000-acre Schell tract, which for years has been devoted exclusively to pasturage purposes, into holdings for the small farmer, will add much to the wealth and population of the Sonoma valley, which at the present time is attracting world-wide attention as a desirable place to live in. In addition to the richness of its soil and a healthy and matchless climate its school facilities are unsurpassed.

E. F. Woodward Died Sunday

Edward F. Woodward of Santa Rosa, who has been ill for a long time, died at his country home near Santa Rosa on Snnday. Coming to this state from Kansas about twenty years ago, the deceased located in Santa Rosa, and shortly after was elected Mayor of that city. After serving out his term of office he was again honored and elected Treasurer of Sonoma county. After serving two terms Mr. Woodward was sent to the State Senate for four years. At the expiration of his senatorial duties he was appointed Surveyer of the Port of San Francisco, which position he held up to the day of his death. Thus was the deceased continually in office for at least twenty years.

Mr. Woodward was also President of the Union Trust Savings Bank of Santa Rosa. He is survived by a widow and two daughters.

Reckless Auto Driver Discharged From Custody

W. O. Warnock, the reckless driver of an automobile who ran down a buggy in which was seated the little family of M. S. Beyers of this place while on a visit in Alameda county, on Sunday last, an account of which appears elsewhere in these columne, was found not guilty in an Oakland police court Tuesday.

Warnock, who was driving his car at a speed of 45 miles an hour when he collided with the buggy and all but killed Mrs. Beyers, was taken into custody and charged with reckless driving, but evidently according to justice as it is meted out in the police courts of Alameda county, no one has any rights on its public roads which a dare-devil auto driver is bound to respect.

Septic Tank Sewer System Plans

City Engineer Smyth of Santa Rosa, who will have charge of installing our $20,000 sewer system, attended an adjourned meeting of the City Trustees Wednesday evening and submitted his plans and specifications for the proposed sewer. As soon as the bonds are printed, and they are already in the hands of the printer, they will be converted into coin. Bids will then be advertised and received by the City Trustees for the construction of a septic tank sewer system which it is hoped will be constructed without further delay.

THE PASSING OF GEO. C. WATRISS

He Was a Pioneer Farmer of Sonoma Valley, Being One of It's Oldest Residents

George C. Watriss, a pioneer resident of this valley, who had resided for many years on the Watriss farm near Agua Caliente, died at his home last Tuesday.

The deceased belonged to one of the oldest families in this valley, having came here in the early sixties. He was a brother of Franklin Watriss, who survives him.

Mr. Watriss was born in New York City in 1838, and was 72 years of age.

The funeral took place from his late residence last Thursday morning and was largely attended. The interment was in Mountain Cemetery.

Tax Levy for 1910-11

The City Trustees, sitting as a Board of Equalization, met last Monday evening and fixed the city tax levy for the fiscal year of 1910-11 at 90 cents on the $100 valuation. The rate is the same as last year although interest on the $20,000 sewer bonds must be met out of the levy. Were it not for that fact the levy, owing to the recent equalization of assessments on city property, would have been much lower this year than last. The total assessed value of all property within the city limits is $543,000. This will provide on a 90 cents levy the sum of $4,887 to help defray the expenses of the city government the coming fiscal year. This sum will be considerably increased by the revenue derived from the license tax, which will foot up something over $2,000.

Fraternal Visit

A delegation of Odd Fellows from Sonoma Lodge No. 28, paid a fraternal visit to Petaluma Lodge, No. 30, last Tuesday evening. The first degree work of the order was exemplified on a class of four initiaties, two from this place and two from the local lodge. A banquet followed, the brethren of Petaluma doing themselves proud as entertainers.

Among those present from Sonoma Lodge were Judge Cheney, John Wagnon, Lynn MacQuiddy, Geo. P. Schnitzer, W. S. Dunn, Harry Dunn, A. R. Entelmann, J. Rubke, A. and F. Batto and J. Groskopf.

Dislocates a Finger.

Louis P. Kearney, formerly of this valley but who has been holding the position of county farmer near Santa Rosa for a number of years, painfully dislocated the little finger of his right hand Wednesday. The dislocation was reduced by a county seat surgeon, but the injury will prevent the use of the hand for some time.

Sonoma Orchestra Ball

A grand ball will be given in Union Hall on Friday evening, September 23rd, by the band boys. The music will be furnished by the eight-piece orchestra of the Sonoma Valley Band. The young men having the affair in hand assures its success and a brilliant gathering of society people will be there.

This social function will be the forerunner of many others during the fall and winter months.

County Tax Levy.

The Board of Supervisors meet at the Court House, Santa Rosa, next Monday to fix the county tax rate for the coming year. It is probable the levy will be the same as that of 1909-10.

LONELY DEATH IN CATTLE GUARD

I. Walker, Hailing From Merced County, Found Dying Near Railroad Depot.

I. Walker, presumably a laboring man hailing from Merced county, was discovered lying inside the cattle guard on the depot grounds of the Northwestern Pacific railroad in this place, last Tuesday afternoon, in a dying condition. The man was speechless and expired in a few minutes after being discovered.

A search of the man's clothing revealed two poll tax receipts issued by the Assessor of Merced county to I. Walker, and it is presumed that is the name of the dead man. He was about 50 years of age. He is unknown here.

Coroner Blackburn, who happened to be in town, empanneled a jury to inquire into the manner of the man's death, which was found to be from natural causes.

MRS. M. BEYERS SERIOUSLY INJURED

The Buggy in Which She was Riding With Husband and Child Ran Down by Reckless Auto Driver

Mrs. Beyers, wife of M. S. Beyers of the grocery firm of Glaister & Beyers of this city, met with a bad accident near Alvarado, Alameda county, last Sunday.

The Beyers family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Beyers and their four-year-old daughter, were visiting Mrs. Beyers' parents for a few days. On Sunday evening, accompanied by his wife, child and Miss Ida Van Court, his sister-in-law, Mr. Beyers was out driving in a two-seated rig. When four miles out of Hayward on their return to Alvarado, the party were run down by a reckless automobile driver.

When the automobile crashed into the vehicle the occupants were thrown out and the automobile skidded and turned turtle, pinning its occupants, a man and a woman, underneath, both of whom escaped serious injury. The Beyers family were not so fortunate, however. When the impact took place between the auto and buggy, Mrs. Beyers was hurled against a fence, with the result that four of her left ribs were broken and her shoulder blade was fractured and she received many contusions and bruises, as well as possible internal injuries. She had her child in her lap, but although the little one was thrown fully twenty feet it landed on the grass and was not even badly bruised.

The machine caught fire but the blaze was soon extinguished.

At latest accounts Mrs. Beyers was resting easy at the home of her father, Gus Van Court, Chief Engineer of the Alvarado pumping station, but it will be several weeks before she will have recovered sufficiently from her injuries to return to her Sonoma home.

Sonoma Horses at the Stadium

In the trotting event for horses in the 2:15 class at the Stadium, San Francisco, last Saturday, Mike C., owned by M. E. Cummings of this place and driven by Jos. F. Ryan, Secretary of the Sonoma Driving Club, won second money. He came in second in three exciting heats. Time—2:15, 2:15 and 2:14.

Satmour and Pat O., also Sonoma horses, were also entered in the races, Satmour in the free-for-all trot or pace event, and Pat O., who tried conclusions with a bunch of horses in the 2:20 class, became nervous on the track and failed to make good.

Petaluma Visitor at Boyes' Springs Has Narrow Escape

H. Lezinsky of Petaluma had a narrow escape from being dragged to death by a horse at Boyes' Springs last Sunday. Just before making his start for home in a double rig he took the animals to a watering trough to water them before hitching them up. One of the animals became frightened and bolted. Lezinsky became entangled in the reins and was dragged quite a distance before the animal was brought to a standstill by becoming entangled in some shrubbery. This probably saved the man's life who providentially escaped with minor bruises and scratches.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NOTES.

Doings of the Various Sets in Both Town and Valley.

Coroner Frank L. Blackburn was here on business Tuesday.

Dr. Francis Leix has been visiting Santa Rosa friends the past few days.

Mrs. Pauline McMullen visited relatives in the metropolis this week.

F. Nichelini of Agua Caliente has returned from a week's outing in Lake county.

Mrs. A. Castex and children visited San Francisco relatives during the big fiesta in that city.

Len Brittain, formerly of this place but now residing in Santa Rosa, was in town last Wednesday.

Chief Deputy County Clerk Jack Ford was in town last Wednesday, shaking hands with his numerous friends here.

Miss Henrietta Weber returned from the metropolis Monday evening where she attended the Ninth of September celebration.

A. Lutgens with a party of friends returned from a week's outing in Lake county last Sunday. He made the trip without mishap in his touring car.

Dr. L. B. Lawson, specialist in the fitting of glasses for the Lawson-Rinner Optical Company of Santa Rosa, will be at the Union Hotel on Tuesday, September 27th.

The Democratic Nominee for County Clerk.

Edward H. Brown, Secretary of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce, and the Democratic nominee for County Clerk, was in town Wednesday afternoon and during his brief stay here dropped into our sanctum to make the acquaintance of the editor. We must confess we were very favorably impressed with the young man, and the only fault we could discern about him was the fact that he was a Democrat and not a Republican, because we had just "heard from Maine." However that may be, Mr. Brown, as Secretary of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce and principal promotor of the remarkable and successful Gravenstein Apple Show in Sebastopol, has proved himself to possess executive ability of a high order. This, together with his standing in commercial circles in his home town, is sufficient endorsement of his ability to conduct the affairs of the office he seeks with credit and ability.

Mr. Brown returned to his home in Santa Rosa early in the evening favorably impressed with Sonoma and its hospitable people.

Lawrence Villa Changes Hands

Messrs. Gere & Bruchou, first-class French caterers from San Francisco, have leased the Lawrence Villa for a term of years and will conduct that popular summer resort in a first-class manner. The new proprietors are experienced hotel men and under their management we bespeak for the Lawrence Villa increased popularity at home as well as abroad.

It is the intention of the new management to give a grand opening barbecue and dance in the near future, notice of which will appear in these columns in due time.

CONCRETE PIPE FOR SEWERAGE PURPOSES.

A Strong Recommendation from the City Council of Santa Rosa.

To Whom it May Concern:

This is to certify that in the year of 1905 the City of Santa Rosa constructed a 20-inch concrete main sewer leading from a point in the E. J. Hall ranch to the tanks on the sewer farm of said City of Santa Rosa.

That in or during the winter of 1909-10 the said city constructed a like main sewer from a point on College avenue and Ripley street to connect with the line constructed in 1905, at the point of commencement in the E. J. Hall farm, making in all about two miles of 20-inch concrete main sewer line, all of which line is constructed of 20-inch concrete pipe.

The first line of pipe was manufactured by the Sonoma Stone Construction Company, and has proven to be very satisfactory.

The pipe used in the second line of construction was manufactured by Mr. George Rielly. Owing to the better facilities for the manufacture of the said pipe possessed by Mr. Rielly the pipe furnished by him was far superior to that used in the construction of the first main.

In our experience and opinion there is no pipe made for sewer purposes equal in every detail to a properly made concrete pipe. It improves by age, is easy of removal or repair and easy to connect with; will stand a harder blow and greater pressure than any earthern or terra cotta pipe made.

In time iron will rust and decay, terra cotta will soften and turn to clay, but concrete, in water or under the ground, will turn to ever lasting stone.

MR. GEO. RIELLY,
Santa Rosa, Cal.
Dear Sir:

In regard to our conversation of recent date, would say that the twenty-inch concrete sewer pipe made by you for the city is satisfactory in every respect, and would cheerfully recommend it to any one.

That water tank that you made for me, out of the same pipe, does not leak enough to keep it moist on the outside.

I think it would be better as a water cooler, if it were porous.

Very truly yours,
EUGENE G. BRONSON.
Chairman Sewer Committee.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance for advancement. The National Telegraph Institute of Portland, Ore., operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write for full details.

CLICK OF THE KEY

The Reading of Telegraph Messages by Sound.

STORY OF THE FIRST TRIAL.

A Lack of Tape Caused Alonzo B. Cornell to Attempt Interpretating the Morse Code by Ear—The Discovery That Abolished the Use of the Tape.

Ezra Cornell is known in history as the father of Cornell university, as one of the men who helped to build the first telegraph line and as an ardent organizer of telegraph systems in the early days, being instrumental in the formation of the now famous Western Union Telegraph company. His son, Alonzo B. Cornell, became ultimately vice president of the Western Union and governor of New York state—high commercial and political honors.

Yet he once confessed to me that he felt he should be credited with the additional honor of having made the discovery that telegraph messages could be read by ear, and he seemed to take more pride in his part in bringing this about than he did in any of his other achievements.

"I was trained as a telegraph operator," said Mr. Cornell in telling me the story. "I suppose I took to telegraphy naturally because of my father's deep and large interests in the then new mode of communication. Anyway, I learned the Morse key easily, and I was, in fact, very fond of telegraphing from both the practical and the scientific standpoints.

"One afternoon, sometime in the early fifties, when I was stationed at Albany, N. Y., there was an unusual inrush of newspaper dispatches—I was in charge of the press key—and in the midst of the task of receiving them I found to my consternation that I was out of tape. Before taking my seat before the key I had neglected to replenish the tape reel.

"There was a bountiful supply of tape in the cellar of the building, but it was a long trip there—there were no elevators in those days—and I knew that to go there I would waste precious time. And there were those anxious newspaper men hanging over my shoulder.

"Suddenly, as I fished about mentally for the quickest way out of my dilemma, this thought popped into my head: 'You don't need any tape. Half the time you don't look at it when the dispatches are coming in before you write them out. You trust to your ears to tell what the instrument says. Why not do so now?' Instantly I determined to see whether or not I could take the dispatches by sound alone.

"I put my fingers on the key and broke in on New York, whence the dispatches were coming. 'Send rather slowly and very distinctly,' I asked the man at the other end of the wire. He at once began to do so—not without some curiosity as to my reason, I found out later.

"But I didn't think of that at the time, for I was glowing all over with the knowledge that I could write out the dispatches—and write them correctly, for they made sense—by simply listening to the sounds that the key made.

"Thus I continued taking the dispatches to the very end. Then the New York operator called me. 'What are you doing up there?' he asked. 'Why did you want me to send slowly and distinctly?'

"I answered that I had said goodby to the telegraph tape forever and told him of the discovery I had made. He was immediately interested. 'Send me slowly and very distinctly fifteen or twenty words, and I'll see whether or not I can do the same thing,' he requested.

"I did so, full of confidence, and a little later there came to me this message: 'I've done it too. Some of the other boys say they can. I predict that within a month there won't be an inch of tape used in the New York office.'

"Years later," added Mr. Cornell, "I was told that about the time that I discovered for myself a new and revolutionary method of receiving telegraph messages the same method was also discovered by an operator in the main office in Pittsburg. I have no doubt that this is true. Sooner or later the discovery was bound to be made not only in one, but several offices. But I have always felt that I was the first to make the discovery and should be credited with it in telegraphic history."—Boston Globe.

Watering the Horse.

It is allowable when a horse is hot to let him have three or four swallows of cool water, but no more. The few swallows will help cool him, and another limited drink may be given every few minutes for four or five times, after which he may drink his fill without danger. In careless or inexperienced hands, however, the only safe way is to let the horse stand for half an hour or more with no water until he is fairly cooled off.—Country Life In America.

Descriptive.

"The eye of a little miss was attracted by the sparkle of dew at early morning. "Mamma," she exclaimed, "it's hotter'n I thought it was."

"What do you mean?"

"Look here; the grass is all covered with perspiration."—St. Louis Star.

Failures are with heroic minds the stepping stones to success.—Halliburton.

A Slight Change.

Slight changes sometimes make a great difference. "Dinner for nothing," would be agreeable, for instance; not so, "Nothing for dinner."

His Wish.

Tom—I wish this ten dollar bill was a ten dollar debt. Dick—Heavens! Why? Tom—I'd never get rid of it.—Cleveland Leader.

We are sure to get the better of fortune if we do but grapple with her.—Seneca.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a costitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
